NOTES

¹ See G.L. c. 265, § 45; c. 275, § 18. Commonwealth v. Pagan, 445 Mass. 161 (2005), held that the portion of § 18 which permitted the optional imposition of lifetime community parole supervision for first-offense convictions of G.L. c. 265, §§ 13B, 13F or 13H was unconstitutionally vague.

² Community parole supervision for life is mandatory for this offense if the defendant has "one or more prior convictions of indecent assault and battery, rape, assault with intent to commit rape, unnatural and lascivious acts, drugging for sex, kidnap or of any offense which is the same as or necessarily includes the same elements of said offense." G.L. c. 265, § 45.

⁴ On first offense, judge shall not impose community parole supervision for life if mitigation is established pursuant to G.L. c. 275, § 18.

⁵ On first offense, judge shall not impose community parole supervision for life if district attorney so requests. G.L. c. 275, § 18.

⁷ The definition of "sex offense" in G.L. c. 6, §178C ends with the words "; any attempt to commit a violation of any of the aforementioned sections pursuant to section 6 of chapter 274 or a like violation of the laws of another state, the United States or a military, territorial or Indian tribal authority." IN an earlier version, the statute had a comma after the phrase "chapter 274." The removal of the comma, coupled with the absence of the semicolon that separates each of the prior offenses in this list, probably reflects a drafting error. Without a comma or semicolon after "chapter 274," the amended wording appears to include an out-of-state conviction for attempting one of the specified offenses, but not an out-of-state conviction for the completed crime.
